

Transloading

Gulf Winds operates strategically-located transload facilities at the Port of Houston's Barbour's Cut and Bayport container terminals as well as the BNSF intermodal ramp. Our locations allow us to handle up to maximum container capacity eliminating exposure associated with moving overweight cargo on Texas roads. Gulf Winds has capacity to handle large volumes and is strategically located resulting in substantial savings to our customers.

Benefits to Transloading

- Save up to 30% on inland transportation costs by transloading ocean containers into over-the-road trucks when delivering over 250 miles from origin.
- Save up to 20% on ocean freight costs by maximizing cargo weight through the transload process.
- Eliminate the risk associated with moving heavy cargo locally or over the road by transloading at the port/rail and shipping legal loads to final destination.

- Protect the cargo and minimize damage by using air-ride trailers instead of steamship containers.
- Increase equipment utilization and lower ocean freight costs.
- Inspect cargo for damage or irregularities prior to delivery to customers.

Overweight Program

Save up to 20% on shipping costs by loading containers overweight. Gulf Winds is able to legally transport overweight containers to or from Barbour's Cut,

Bayport and BNSF-Pearland, allowing us to maximize cargo weight on import and export containers – reducing the number of containers shipped per year by up to 20%.

Inventory Management

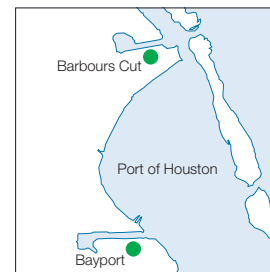

Check on-hand inventory or monitor inbound and outbound activity with Gulf Winds' management system, gwiTrack.
